NET Manifesto

Our vision is for Europe to be:

- An attractive and sustainable destination for visitors from Europe and worldwide.
- A competitive place for tourism businesses to establish and operate.
- A strong contributor to growth and jobs.

Continued success in European tourism will require:

- An open market in services.
- A competitive fiscal environment for business and consumers.
- Continued improvement in applicable visa regimes.
- Transparency and informed choice for consumers.
- Improved infrastructure and service for visitors.
- Raised awareness of the general economic benefits of tourism.

The sector's economic contribution is at risk from competitive pressure and complacency about Europe's continued appeal. Progress is difficult because diverse local, national and EU policy priorities affect tourism. These include: visa regimes; security; taxation; consumer protection and passenger rights; jobs and growth; transport infrastructure; environmental management; energy; foreign relations; inward investment.

Current challenges:

- Legislative, administrative and fiscal burdens inhibit performance and make EU establishment uncompetitive.
- Over-regulation impedes consumers' choice of service providers.
- Europe welcomed 68% of global international arrivals in 1970. This fell to 51.8% in 2013 of which less than one in five came from outside the region.
- International arrivals in Asia Pacific and the Americas are growing at a faster rate.
- Service levels and product range must continue to adapt to emerging market needs.

Tourism must be an EU priority at a senior level in order to succeed. The interests of industry and policy makers must be aligned so that tourism's potential may be fulfilled. This will entail effective policy development and coordination that involves proper consultation with industry. NET exists to catalyse, encourage and support such efforts.
